

Phase One: Business Definition

Deadline: Sunday 19 April 2026. (Each customer group must bring a paper copy to the lecture, there will be a meeting between customers and developers during the lectures)

Any late submissions will be disadvantaged.

Task 1.1: Business description outline (by Customer Groups)

Dear Students,

As discussed in the lecture, each group has two roles, a customer (noted C) and a developer (noted D). Customer groups are responsible to provide input on requirements (see below), Developer groups are responsible to develop their allocated business.

Customer Groups: In your role as a Customer, each group is required to write 1-2 pages, a business description or outline, that describes the business (of your developer group), in terms of what the business does and how it works, the services it offers, its business processes and functions, its users (or stakeholders) and the environment/circumstances that it will be used and eventually deployed in. Use the list of questions below as a guideline to write the business description/outline.

On the group formation sheet (URL link in previous task), allocated projects are listed for all developer groups, in your role as a customer you should identify the project (or business) that was allocated to your assigned Developer group to write the description for it as a Customer, as described in the lecture. Each Customer must study their respective Developer Group business, using online or other resources as necessary, to formulate a detailed Business description outline.

=> Submission: Each Customer group must submit a 1-2 pages business description outline on Ritaj to me, in a reply to this message, and also send a copy to their developer group on the above deadline date. We will have a workshop, i.e., a meeting between customers and developers, on the above deadline date. Thus, each customer group must also bring a paper copy of the business description to the lecture on the above deadline [for the workshop to be a face2face, else an electronic copy is sufficient]. Groups who fail to bring a paper copy will be disadvantaged.

Business Description/Outline:

To write the business description/outline, each customer group may use the following questions to help formulate the business description:

- What is the business about? [online Pizza shop ...]
- What (business) services the business offers? [e.g., Selling Pizza, Delivery of Pizza, Payment (Cash and Card) ... etc]
- What are the capacities of the business? i.e., how many customers does it, usually, serve in a month? How many types of products does it offer to its customers? How many products does it usually sell in a month? and so forth.

- How does the business work in offering its services? i.e., what are the business process to buy a product? (in other words, its business model, i.e.: how it generates its revenue)
- What are the employees and their roles employed in the business? How many employees your business employ and to which business services?

All the best
